MARTIN'S PLANTATION

AL-V-A-030

Southeast of Frostburg on Maplehurst Country Club
Date: 1755

The Martin's Plantation was General Braddock's second camp on his march to Fort Duquesne. Braddock and his troops stayed at the site on June 14 and 15 of the year 1775. During the period of encampment, scouts moved westward exploring the surrounding country side. The site can only be approximated as there are no records of the exact location and boundaries. All that is known is that it was located to the southeast of the National Road.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

Martin's Plantation was General Edward Braddock's second camp on his march to Fort Duquesne. Braddock and his troops stayed upon this site June 14, and 15, 1755. During this time, his scouts explored the surrounding country side and scouted the trail ahead. The site can only be approximated as there are no records of the exact location and boundaries, only that it was to the Southeast of the National Road.

A sign marks the location of Martin's Plantation and is a reminder of the historic march of General Braddock to Fort Duquesne, which was one of the first military roads in Western Maryland.
